

MEMORANDUM

То:	Eugene Mayor and City Council and LTD Board of Directors
From:	Rob Inerfeld, Transportation Planning Manager, City of Eugene
	Andrew Martin, Development Planner, Lane Transit District
Date:	February 28, 2022
Subject:	MovingAhead Comment Summary Memo

MovingAhead regularly presents summaries and original versions of comments received to Eugene City Council and the Lane Transit District (LTD) Board of Directors. This memo summarizes comments received since the publication of the Comment Response Report, which was the last time staff provided the Council and the Board with feedback from the public.

Background

At the May 26, 2021 joint work session between Eugene City Council and the LTD Board of Directors, staff provided the Comment Response Report summarizing public comment received in summer and fall 2019, including the October 21, 2019 public hearing.

Since the public hearing, the project has not conducted large-scale public engagement. However, to comply with federal public participation requirements related to NEPA, staff on the project sent letters to local Tribes and potentially impacted property owners and emails to agencies that may be involved in permitting the project. These communications advertised the project would accept feedback for 45 days from December 1, 2021 to January 14, 2022.

In practice, staff keep track of all comments received, regardless of whether a formal comment period is advertised. In an effort to be inclusive and respond to feedback, comments received after the January 14, 2022 deadline were included until it was necessary to begin analyzing comments for this memo. As such, this memo contains a summary of 27 comments received from January 8, 2020 through February 10, 2022. The original comments are attached as Appendix A.

Summary of Comments

Similar to the Comment Response Report, staff categorized comments into categories to allow for easier understanding of the issues. Twenty-two unique individuals commented during the period.

Major themes included:

- 48% (13 comments) provided general commentary or questions about the project without offering support or opposition;
- 33% (9 comments) discussed impacts related to the project other than business impacts;
- 30% (8 comments) opposed the project or some element of it;
- 26% (7 comments) expressed opinions about policy issues that are not NEPA issues;

- 19% (5 comments) expressed that the project had not adequately analyzed an issue;
- 19% (5 comments) brought up issues related to improving fixed-route service rather than building infrastructure (such as current low ridership)

Several individuals also brought up issues such as safety or congestion, issues with the process, and impacts to businesses.

Appendix A: Comments Received

Hello,

I am wondering if the recently passed American Rescue Plan, which gives money to transit agencies, will help fund the goals outlined in the Moving Ahead process. Also, with the new infrastructure plan in congress likely to give billions to transit agencies around the country, has this been factored in to funding options?

Also, I am wondering when the decision will be made on which corridors will have EmX busses and if some will only get the enhanced service.

Thank you! Josh

I have previously inquired about the current plans on River Road without any response whatsoever! Please update me on the proposed plans near and adjacent to our property at the corner of River Road and Silver Lane (Carl's Junior, Arby's) and if the plan includes attempting to condemn our drive through access by taking a portion of our property.

Your prompt response is appreciated!

Hello!

In the "Schedualing" portion of the full alternatives analysis report, it lays out a schedule that is quite out of date; for example, saying that operations might begin as soon as spring of this year. I'm just wondering if there is a updated timeline somewhere?

Thanks, Josh

I am wondering if there is an updated timeline available for the Moving Ahead project. Currently in the Alternetives Anaysis Full Report there is a schedule that is incorrect, for example saying that operations could begin this year. So if you have an updated schedule that is available that would be greatly appreciated.

Rob Inerfeld:

You asked me to get in contact with regard to my comments on bike poor-transition/absent infrastructure points regarding corridors.

MLK: Aside from the ATC comment about needing another Springfield-Eugene corridor to supplement Whilamut NA with its ebike prohibition, I find this whole corridor dangerous, even though my main route through there is west on Centennial to take the Autzen turn to cross the bridge to reach the 13th Ave bikeway home. Widening sidewalks would be needed for almost all of the MLK mileage to yield good separation of ped & bike users, and does not address need to get across MLK safely to the Autzen (not feasible on the curve at Autzen), line of sight problems with cars emerging from sideroads on the south/west side of MLK preceding Autzen, or driveways between there and Coburg (per the other chat comment; I found this less of a problem for me, at least at my travel times in that western segment, than bad sidewalk pavement; most driveway cuts seemed to include pretty good sightlines). The north/east side of the I-5-to-Auzen route seems to have a more congested sidewalk, even outside the bus stop where the sidewalk is narrow, so I have abandoned doing that. Not sure what the solution is.

99: On that transition to 7th from 99S, after being dumped from the bridge/sidewalk back on to 99, you are forced (if you're being legal) to cross W 7th Place, and then you're marooned. You can travel on the sidewalk west on the Place to find a street heading south; head south on Garfield (road or sidewalk); or head east on W 7th Ave's sidewalk; none of these are particularly safe. Garfield is the worst option, but it's hard to avoid by going via 7th Place. The Garfield EMX lanes shouldn't be interfered with, but right now I feel less safe in this space than I do on 99 itself, as unpleasant as that is.

River Road: Although this is also unpleasant with thick, speeding traffic, I don't see any substantive connection problems here for bike infrastructure.

Coburg: Ditto, although I admit that I've mostly used it up to Harlow, and not much farther north

If MA cannot be used to resolve connection problems in the cycling infrastructure, at least I'd hope that it would not preclude them, or make things worse.

Thanks, Branden

Not sure if I should even be surprised, but foisting increased travel times- and the associated greenhouse gas emissions- on the vast majority of our community while granting a "no build" for the south Eugene corridor is transparently inequitable. Liberal elites don't have to deal with any (and I repeat, any) impacts, but my commute on the 99 corridor- and others on the Coburg Rd corridor- will double. Best quote: "Staff heard from businesses that parking and maintaining the character of Oak and Pearl Streets were essential to them." Oh, really? But you won't listen to all the businesses on 99? Or Coburg Rd? The ones that- in total- employ way more people than on Oak/Pearl? This tells me that the whole project- hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayer dollar's worth- is agenda-based and completely adrift from reality. Just out of curiosity, does LTD track the number of empty seats per bus mile driven? Is it double the number of filled seats driven? Triple? Related to that, I can't help but point out that LTD does not pay weight-mile taxes or fuel taxes for the privilege of grinding down our streets with more weight per axle (with driver only) than an 18-wheeler at max GVW. Sweet deal for LTD, not so much for me and other tax payers.

Andrew, Rob and Terri -

We received the letter dated December 1, 2021, regarding the preferred alternatives that will specifically affect our poverty at 785 River Road (Greenway Townhouses).

I couldn't find any newer information on the website that the July 2017 CH2M Concept Plans and the decision that Staff is recommending the EmX corridor. The proposed EmX station that affects our property is shown on R.X.12 of that document.

Is this the most recent iteration and the correct sheet I should be reviewing? Have there been any more detailed drawings developed yet? I just want to be sure that we are reviewing the correct document to provide comments. Thanks. Hi Andrew,

Salutations,

Hope your time is going well.

I've recently become aware that Eugene once had a tram system that was known as the best in the country for its time. General Motors then "helped" us switch to busses as the main form of public transportation.

Now that there's more interest in green travel options these days, I'm wondering if there are any plans to revive our proud history of best small town tram in the country? I know many people wouldn't rely on cars here if they didn't feel like there was no other viable choice. Bikes don't feel safe without protected lanes and buses still contribute to the largest source of microplastics in the water ways, tire runoff from roads after rain.

Wouldn't a restoration of a historic trolly line would be a great tourist draw and would help businesses thrive? As there could be more room for shops when we don't need so much parking space because more people could trolly into/around the city center. Which by the way would benefit from a small car free walk/bike only district. It would bring back the small town feel and promote physical health. Some streets could be converted to outdoor seating for restaurants. I've seen many people asking around online for outdoor eating options in Eugene and it just doesn't feel like we haven't anything close to something competing with that charming European city way.

Please forgive me if this isn't the right place to send this message (if it isn't, could you pass it along? Thanks.), I'm just wondering and wandering around the site trying to see what I can do to get more involved without having to go back to school to become a city planner. I was disappointed to see only internships for current students, it would be nice if there was some sort of apprenticeship to learn on the job. I'd work for free or pittance. Our city offering more opportunities for people to join and contribute even if they aren't well suited for the college environment would be beneficial for the community as well. It's not just the price of college that can be a barrier, it's the format of learning.

I'll restrain myself from further rambling. I'm primarily curious about the tram system and if there's talk/thought on that? It would certainly help alleviate a lot of commuter traffic if folks could just catch the rail to work. Think of the emissions/ pollution it would cut down on. It would also boost our sense of community if we didn't have to be so isolated from one another in our individual vehicles. Buses have the bad rap of attracting a certain class of rider and I think that dissuades some people from using that system as well as the wait time and lack of smooth travel without connecting with another bus through the station. A well designed tram system may be the answer to get more folks out of their cars and into the community they live in.

Again, forgive if this isn't the place to send this and forgive my ignorant dreaming for a perfect little town. I'm aware there's likely several good reasons why these things aren't already established. However, car centrism is killing not only our communities, it's killing the planet. Eugene should live up to its hippy vibes and be passionate about addressing this in a meaningful way. Stop prioritizing cars and start prioritizing people. A city should be designed for people, not cars. As it stands, it's time consuming and physically unsafe to try and traverse this town in any way other than vehicular. Are y'all making real moves to fix that? Or just... going through motions to seem like it? A painted on bike lane isn't a safe bike lane. We need a proper barrier between large machinery and delicate meat sacks doing the two wheel thing. Might I suggest natures bollard? The tree? Throw a few of those puppies around and you got yourself a quaint little forest anyone would be proud to call home and throw money at supporting. Sure, there's leaf and branch maintenance, but isn't that worth the cleaner air and safer streets? The boost in mental health to everyone when they aren't surrounded by just concrete.

So much for no further rambling. Yeesh. Bless you for reading this if you made it this far. Have a great rest of your time.

Regards, Katherine M.

You people are ruining Eugene!

You approved that monstrous housing development going up on lower River Road, ruining our neighborhood! That development will bring at least 90+ people to rent those units plus 125 parking places for cars! And you want to cut the road down to one lane going each way?!?!? It already gets super busy at rush hours. And stacked up if there's a wreck on the Beltline! And guess what?

People don't want to ride the bus!!!!!!!!

They are rolling germ factories. And they drive around town practically empty!!! At this time, we want our cars, especially with the threat of Covid-19!

Why not get smaller buses and more of them! Create jobs, and capable of getting into the neighborhoods for folks that need to ride the bus.

Not to mention knocking down mature shade trees in the parkways! We need their shade in the Summers!

You have no right to steal land from residents and businesses to make way for more empty buses!!!

We want to be heard!!!

WE VOTE NO

on the "Moving ahead" plan LTD is trying to cram down our throats!!! Rhonda Lindsten 465 River Road

To all of you who's minds are probably already made up,

This is not from a business owner who is concerned about business disruption. We'd be happy to take one for the team if it made sense. This is from a business owner who had a window facing Hwy. 99 where all day we see near empty busses going by. This project does not make sense. This is a waste of non-renewable natural resources and money to solve a problem that doesn't exist. The "free" federal grant money is still our money.

Please don't move ahead.

Roger

Hi Vicky,

Thank you for your email and for sharing your thoughts on potential River Road developments. Your perspective is helpful as we have largely heard feedback in support of further infrastructure on River Road, primarily due to the increased housing going into that area. I am glad you reached out as I find it helpful to hear from all sides of a proposal.

This is slated to go before City Council for another review, I believe it was last reviewed and then postponed by City Council in late 2019 or early 2020 to consider alternative and additional options.

Thank you again for your thoughts on the proposals regarding Moving Ahead.

Dear Council Members and LTD Board of Directors,

The recent news about the City of Eugene and LTD plans along River Road to take away traffic lanes, impede flow, create traffic congestion and potentially take what small yard I now have has made me sick to my stomach and thoroughly disappointed in those we trust to lead us. Was proper public notification given? NO. Have we been told where the funds will come from and how much the cost? NO. Have we been told how much destruction will occur on our properties? NO. What will be gained is questionable as the LTD ridership on River Road is dismal and there are already bus pull-off's in place as well as established bike lanes and sidewalks. I respectfully ask that this issue be delayed so that all aspects of the project can be disclosed, reviewed and discussed with the public.

Thank you,

Thanks for responding. The most impacted corridors are the RR-SC and Coburg Rd. I've been speaking with many property owners and small businesses in the RR-SC area, and they hadn't heard anything of this buildout. Many would lose business parking, signs, front yards, trees. All would see a huge decrease in property value. All to accommodate.....bigger busses?

The 51-52 run on RR-SC. When I board either one, they're mostly empty. This EMX buildout makes no sense. The council and LTD haven't given any of us a decent reason why all this destruction must be done to accommodate bigger busses that get you to where you don't want to go more quickly. Can you tell me of any proof that an overwhelming public demand exists for EMX on RR-SC and Coburg corridors? Can you please explain why property owners and businesses that will be most adversely impacted haven't been notified?

Subject: [External Sender]EMX buildouts

You will soon be deciding to approve, or disapprove, Moving Ahead's build-outs for five corridors in Eugene. As someone who actually uses EmX from downtown Eugene, through the Springfield loop to Riverbend hospital three times a week, I'm in a position to critique its efficacy.

The EmX bus I ride has approximately 42 seats. I first get on at the Eugene station between 8:00AM - 8:30AM. The bus is busy with university students though not full, but once the EmX passes UO, and proceeds to Springfield station, less than 5-8 patrons remain. Rarely does anyone get on or off at the three Glenwood stops, and once Springfield station is reached, most depart, and maybe a few get on. As we continue the Springfield loop, many other stops are bypassed for lack of riders.

At the Harlow Road roundabout, the EmX either goes to Riverbend, then on to Gateway Mall, prior to returning to Springfield Station, or vice versa. Rarely, are there more than 10 people on the bus. Most often, no more than two or three riders. Keep in mind, The EmX travels through the heavily populated Washburn district, with its mixed use development, goes past both a grade and middle school, numerous shopping centers, including Gateway, and several large apartments complexes, including The Chalet, Gateway Village, Cloverdale Apartments, and The Point condos. Despite all the potential EmX patrons, the EmX is usually over 90% empty. If public transportation's most important financial element is ridership, the EmX is a failure.

As bad as that may be, the International Way route is worse. Whoever was on the bus before reaching that location will have disembarked at Gateway Mall. Most of the time, I'm the only one left. If there should be a heavily traveled EmX path, International Way should be that venue. Richardson, Selco headquarters, Wayfair, etc, are all located on International Way, and it's massively underutilized. Likewise with Riverbend station, almost no one gets on as I'm getting off.

Keep in mind, I make the Springfield-Glenwood-Downtown Eugene loop twice a day, three times a week, and have been doing so for several years. Most importantly, this was the trend BEFORE the lockdowns. Frankly, I'm in a far better position to determine EmX viability than you, as you are obviously not actual bus riders. If you were, you could not support ANY buildout schemes. The EmX has been a terrible waste of money because it doesn't pay for itself. For this last year, fare enforcement has been almost nonexistent on the Glenwood-Springfield loop. Even with that, ridership is very poor. How do MovingAhead proponents justify build-outs?

I invite you to ride the EmX Downtown Eugene-Glenwood-Springfield loop for a week, twice a day, morning and late afternoon, to verify my claims. We can compare notes, videos, still shots, in order for you to make an informed decision prior to destroying more trees and property value along our thoroughfares. Moving Ahead purports all that destruction is necessary for the supposed inevitable development along the River Road-Santa Clara and Coburg Road corridors. Well, Springfield is highly developed, so why the lack of ridership? EmX has been a waste of money. Please don't compound that folly.

P.S. Please send me the projected numbers for ridership that were submitted with funding grant applications to build out three LTD lines long Franklin Blvd., to Gateway and Riverbend, and West 11th Avenue. Also, please include the current ridership numbers for those corridors. I believe the actual ridership has fallen far below the projections submitted with request for funds.

Oh, one last thing, Emily. My understanding is Eugene/LTD won't compensate property and business owners for loss of value due to buildouts. If that's true, would you make a public statement saying that prior to your decision? That would be helpful in gauging public sentiment...,

"As a resident who has lived on River Road since 1976 and has seen many changes with the road and development in this area, I have to say this is one of the worst ideas yet! The impact of forcing two lanes each way of busy traffic down to two lanes going both directions is insane. It is already so difficult to get onto River road from a side street or onto a side street from the River Road turn lane in the center. It will be so much more difficult if this change is made. I travel River Road north from my home to work near the BeltLine every week day at peek traffic times and I have yet to see an LTD bus with even half the seats taken. Stop trying to fix what is not broken and what will make livability of our area so much less."

Mr Grimaldi,

I live on River Road and am very concerned with the plans to add dedicated bus lanes to our area.

I have carefully observed bus traffic during main rush hours both morning and evening. I am seeing single as well as double buses, with very few riders. A double bus headed north with three passengers and a driver seems a bit of overkill. Wasting money, our clean air, and reenforcing the lack of responsible management of LTD funds.

If the truth of Eugenes goals of being "Green" is put to the test by LTD expansion of River Road, I think we would see it is just talk, without accountable action. The mature trees that exist on River Road, provide shade, better air and certainly aesthetic value. Where we have seen roads around town with newly planted trees, after LTD improvements there is more hot pavement, trees poorly chosen and planted, struggling to survive. Not an environment improving action.

River Road has had much money and resources used to widen and provide sidewalks, bike lanes, and friendly curbs. To take these things out and spend the money again for dedicated bus lanes is fiscally irresponsible, and in no way "green".

There has been no conversation/information to the neighbors who border the road as to what it would mean to our homes.

I would ask that you carefully reconsider this path of dedicated bus lanes. This area has already felt the theft of privacy and community/neighborhood with the previous widening of River Road. I feel the lack of transparency is in no way a responsible way to represent our community.

Sincerely,

Aretha DeSpain

I've received a map of the proposed Hwy 99 corridor and have questions and concerns. Our building at 2380 W. 7th Ave has a proposed bus stop directly in front which will also close an existing entry onto our property. I'd appreciate a call and in-person discussion with a decision maker to discuss these plans as well as eminent domain reimbursements and updates to our affected property. You can reach me at 541-736-8886 or 541-915-8159.

Relevant Corridors: Highway 99

People are asking basic questions about the MovingAhead organization. Please tell us -

1) Who are MovingAhead's "Other Regional Partners"? -

Your website says: "MovingAhead — a partnership between the City of Eugene, Lane Transit District, and other regional partners"

2) What is the organizational chart for MovingAhead?

3) Who head's up MovingAhead? (i.e. who is ultimately responsible for MovingAhead messaging and actions?)

4) Who runs MovingAhead's website - who is the "third party"?

Connecting to the MovingAhead site, through the LTD website, a pop-up box appears saying "www.ltd.org says By clicking on this link, you will leave the LTD website for a third-party site not operated by Lane Transit District. Although it has been approved as a reliable partner site LTD does not represent the third party. Lane Transit District is not responsible for third-party website content. Privacy and security policies may differ from those practiced by Lane Transit District."

5) What privacy and security measures are in place for the third-party website and who/what organizations is information submitted through the MovingAhead website shared with?

I look forward to your response.
